Discovery requires exploration.

Encounter Nikkei.

A Japanese–Peruvian culinary experience.

Two sides of an ocean blend seamlessly into one exquisite culinary experience. Japanese–Peruvian cuisine lives here. In the late 19th century Japan’s diaspora combined Peruvian ingredients with Japanese techniques to produce a style of food called Nikkei.

That heritage is embodied in Clay.

The beginning

Inspired by clay.

The open kitchen steeps the room with flavour while charged senses take in the atmosphere. Experience, knowledge, care. Although over one hundred years old, Nikkei is still unfamiliar to many, and it is our privilege and responsibility to bring you its exciting and distinct flavours. Take it in, together.

Sense

The experience.

Rich, earthbound Peruvian tones engage with intricate, ornate Japanese patterning. The eyes explore. Our name, drawn from clay food pots in Peruvian fires, inspires the main dining area while the bar captures gratified, after-meal moods, as the flames die and ash nourishes the soil. The palate settles.

The after

Inspired by ash.

After the fire has fragranced the air a settled comfort sets in and the bar calls.
Contented drinks and laughter. Formalities aside
this area is for the relaxed, the conversational,
the entertainingly social, the comfortable style,
the view, the glinting of the lights.
Listen in for the end of night.
