MOJITO

La Bodeguita/ Raspberry/ Apple/ Exotica
Strawberry/ Pineapple/Mango

The origins of the mojito are disputed. It's believed that explorer Francis Drake drank an early version of the mojito in the 1580's while visiting Cuba. It's also speculated that African slaves in Cuba developed the recipe in the 19th century. No matter where it came from, we're lucky to have it! It was a favourite of Ernest Hemingway and its taste is pure refreshment.

A shot of rum in a highball glass filled with ice. Topped with cola and the juice of a lime wedge. This drink was reportedly developed in Havana in 1900 during the Spanish – American War. Rum company Bacardi claim that their product was used to make the first Cuba Libre, but this might just be wishful thinking.

Two parts dark rum with one part dry vermouth, one part curaçao liqueur. A splash of grenadine. Topped with a twist of orange peel. The drink is named after Gerardo Machado, who was the President of Cuba from 1925 to 1933. He was rather popular during his early years of power.
