

August in Yellow

Hello Parents,

Boy is this year flying by quick! This month's theme is Incredible Imaginations.

The first week of August will be Circus/Carnival Week. We will pretend to visit the Circus and talk about all the fun and exciting things we will see. For art the students will be making circus lions, paper plate clowns and silly hats. For literacy the students will practice tracing their names on circus cut outs as well as matching capital letters on balloon cut outs. For math students will be counting ice cream scoop cut outs.

The second week will be all about Inventions!

For art the students will be tapping into their imaginations and creating cup telephones, cars out of paper rolls and televisions with contact paper. For math/science we will have a glow in the dark scavenger hunt so they can see what life would be like without the light bulb. For literacy students will arrange the alphabet on light bulb cut outs.

The third week will be Dinosaur Week! Students will learn about herbivore vs. carnivore dinosaurs, fossils, and how they went extinct. For art students will make dinosaur skeletons using pasta on a dinosaur cut out. For math students will play a dinosaur memory game. For literacy students will complete dinosaur puzzles by sequencing the alphabet.

The fourth week of August will be Wild West Week. For art students will make their own boots and sheriff badges. For math/science they will be exploring what the west was like in our desert sensory bin. For literacy students will practice tracing the letter of the week on cactus cut outs.

We look forward to all the fun we're going to have in August!
