Summer is finally here, that means happy times and good sunshine!

The first week of June will be Construction week. We will learn all about bulldozers, cement mixers, dump trucks, excavators and cranes! For literacy the students will match upper case letters on wheels to lower case letters on construction trucks. For math the students will nail golf tees onto a Styrofoam board then count how many tees they nailed. For art the students will try to build a house by gluing popsicle sticks to construction paper.

Birthdays:

- 6/09– Yuheng
- 6/22– Luca Ortega

The second week of June will be dedicated to fathers. The kiddos will be celebrating their dads by making them an awesome fathers day gift to show how much they are loved and appreciated!

The third week of June will be Transportation week! We will discuss the different ways there are to travel such as airplanes, trains, cars, boats and spaceships. For literacy the students will trace the letter of the week, N, with transportation counters. For math the students will place numbered trains in numerical order 1-10. For art the students will make cars by gluing colored tissue paper and wheels to paper plates.

We will wrap up June by learning about Community Helpers. This is a great opportunity to talk to the kiddos about the importance of firefighters, police officers, teachers, mail carriers and doctors. We will discuss their many different responsibilities and how they play a critical role in our communities.

We have so many fun activities planned we can't wait!
