Hi! I'm Nick! I am a Korean-American visual arts student stationed in LA. I'm currently looking to jump into the world of visual development! I love drawing, painting and learning about the world through its many artists and designers who love to create the world's media and entertainment. I'm really interested in animation. Some of my goals include continuing my art education as I learn more about the illustration and animation industry. I love working with others and collaborating with their ideas in trying to develop and design stories! Most of all, I'm a big fan of sci-fi, fantasy, and plenty of video games! Part of my biggest goal is to help idealize those creative mediums using my talents.
