

Conditions for Eligibility

(1) Selected participants are expected to commit to

- The entire one-week duration of the Ambassador Programme, beginning with the e-learning workshops before the start of the festival through to the conclusion of the festival. Participants are expected to be prepared for 3daysofdesign, and be physical present on-site during their stay in Copenhagen from 15 – 21 June 2025.

- Ambassadors must be punctual and adhere to the schedule provided by 3daysofdesign. Lateness or absence without prior notification may result in exclusion from the programme.

(2) Terms

- If participants choose to arrive earlier or depart later than the specified dates of the Ambassador Programme, they will be responsible for their own accommodations, meals, inner city transportation, and other daily expenses.

- Round-trip travel, accommodations and meals are provided by the festival. Excluding meals and beverages when not attending 3daysofdesign.

- Transportation covered by the festival includes flights to and from Copenhagen (economy class), and public transport during your stay, such as the metro, buses, and trains.

- Participants must have turned 18 years old before arriving in Copenhagen.

(3) Communication

- Ambassadors should be proactive in their communication, both with 3daysofdesign staff and festival attendees. You are expected to maintain a positive, collaborative attitude throughout the event.

- Participants are encouraged to share their experience of the Ambassador Programme on their social media platforms, as long as the postings reflect a positive image of the festival that's in keeping with the 3daysofdesign brand. Detailed communication guidelines will be provided prior to the festival as a part of our overall strategy.

- 3daysofdesign may arrange for photography and/or filming to document the Ambassador Programme. These materials will be shared with participants and featured on the 3daysofdesign website. Participants are welcome to use the festival assets for the purpose of social media, as long as they include proper credits.

(4) Code of Conduct

- Participants are required to complete the entire Ambassador Programme, which encompasses the online training, on-site training in Copenhagen, and assigned time slots during the festival, as well as the wrap-up that follows afterwards.

- All participants are required to uphold a standard of conduct that reflects positively on both the Ambassador Programme and 3daysofdesign. This includes refraining from any form of misconduct, both during and after programme hours, that could potentially harm the image and reputation of 3daysofdesign and its partners. Maintaining a sense of integrity and professionalism at all times is essential for ensuring a positive experience, and for fostering a collaborative spirit that's respectful of everyone involved.

- Engaging in any form of harassment related to an individual's gender identity, age, race, religion, beliefs, skin colour, language, sexual orientation, marital or family status, physical or mental disability is strictly prohibited and will result in the exclusion from the programme. Contributing to a positive, collaborative atmosphere is at the heart of 3daysofdesign and we are committed to fostering a respectful and inclusive environment for all participants. Any behaviour that undermines this commitment will not be tolerated.

(5) Exclusions and Cancellations

- 3daysofdesign reserves the right to immediately remove a participant from the programme in cases of: non-compliance with our established code of conduct; actions that may harm the reputation of 3daysofdesign; any prolonged absence exceeding three days due to reasons beyond reasonable control; or force majeure.

- If a participant is excluded from the programme, they will be required to cover their travel and hotel expenses, as well as vacate their accommodation. Furthermore, they may also be disqualified from participating in future 3daysofdesign projects until further notice.

- Participants may cancel their participation in the programme before travel arrangements are confirmed. However, once travel and hotel have been booked, any cancellation will require reimbursement to 3daysofdesign of said costs in full. Depending on the circumstances, this may also result in exclusion from future 3daysofdesign projects.

(6) Insurance

- It is strongly recommended that participants secure their own travel insurance covering the full duration of their stay in Copenhagen. 3daysofdesign assumes no liability for any incidents that may occur while in Copenhagen prior to the festival at the on-site training, during the festival or afterwards in the wrap-up. Participants agree to waive any claims against 3daysofdesign.
