

Becca Draper

Graphic Designer

Profile

My passion for design started at a young age, as I have always gravitated towards anything creative. While growing up, little did I know that my creativity could turn into my career. During my time at GCU, I continued to grow my skills and have found a deep love and appreciation for being creative. As a designer, I strive to create work that my clients will appreciate while also leaving my mark on the project. My personal approach to design is "less is more". I'm constantly wanting to expand my skills and learn something new each day. I look forward to pursuing a career where I can apply my creativity and help others see their ideas and brands come to life.
