Holiday Celebrations @ JCCC

Celebrations and holidays are an important part of any community, including our classrooms. As educators, we make intentional decisions about what celebrations are more for adults and what are appropriate for children. We are careful to ensure that celebrations do not supplant other valuable learning experiences. We do not say "no" to celebrations, but instead we give careful thought to how they:

- Honor the diversity within our programs.
- Are reflective and respectful of the classroom community.
- Create a sense of belonging.
- Provide a developmentally appropriate and meaningful experience for children.
- Engage families.
