20/21 SEASON

RENEW TODAY!

The 20/21 Season

Whether it's a symphony written 250 years ago or a world premiere given today, music is created anew each time it's performed. That understanding of music – as a vital, living thing with something to say – is at the heart of what we do.

From the vibrant cultural scenes of modern-day Mexico City, Seoul, and Belo Horizonte to the captivating stories of our own friends and neighbors, this season features premieres from dynamic and emerging voices and long-beloved classics filtered through our contemporary experiences as artists and audiences.

Join us at Walt Disney Concert Hall for a season of exceptional moments.

Pan-American Music Initiative

Bogotá, São Paulo, Buenos Aires, CDMX – the Americas are home to some of today's most vibrant and inventive musical scenes. Under the leadership of Music & Artistic Director Gustavo Dudamel, the LA Phil will embark on an expansive, five-year undertaking celebrating the explosive creativity of the region. The Pan-American Music Initiative will include 30 commissions, recordings of major repertoire, significant residencies and partnerships with Pan-American cultural institutions, and artistic collaborations across all of the LA Phil's venues.

Each season will be shaped by an artist-curator, and the Pan-American Music Initiative's first year will be guided by Mexican composer Gabriela Ortiz. In the 2020/21 season, audiences will hear iconic works by Revueltas and Ginastera, including the latter's Estancia ballet with choreography by Brazilian dance troupe Grupo Corpo, as well as new music by Erika Vega, Alejandro Cardona, and Carlos Sanchez-Gutierrez.

America: The Stories We Tell

America: The Stories We Tell is a year-long exploration of the ways in which narratives shape our nation – from the well-worn myths to the lesser-known tales. Our journey will begin with the work of Angélica Negrón, an emerging voice from the Puerto Rican diaspora, and end in a dialogue between George Gershwin and two of his African American contemporaries, the trail-blazing Florence Price and William Grant Still. In between, John Adams and Peter Sellars will bring a critical eye to American myth, while a diverse new generation of composers will aim to define what's next in the musical story of our nation. Brought into conversation with one another, these works reveal that when it comes to storytelling in America, perspective is everything.

KATIA AND MARIELLE LABÈQUE WITH BRYCE DESSNER AND DAVID CHALMIN

The Labèques

Piano virtuosos Katia and Marielle Labèque are celebrated for their wide-ranging collaborations, and they are bringing that adventurous spirit to Walt Disney Concert Hall for three wildly imaginative programs that are distinctively Labèque. In Supernova, the sisters are joined by the astonishing Barbara Hannigan and director Netia Jones for a mesmerizing concert meditation and performance installation, featuring music from across nine centuries. In March, the Labèques will join the LA Phil to perform double piano concertos by both Bryce Dessner and Nico Muhly. And finally, Don't Fear the Light brings the Labèques together with Dessner and David Chalmin for an electronica- and minimalist-inflected concert featuring music by Radiohead's Thom Yorke, Philip Glass, Steve Reich, Timo Andres, Meredith Monk, Dessner, and Chalmin.

The Tristan Project

Esa-Pekka Salonen returns with this remarkable, groundbreaking production of Wagner's Tristan and Isolde directed by Peter Sellars with video by one of America's leading visual artists, Bill Viola. When the Tristan Project was first performed in 2004, The New York Times called it a highlight of Salonen's tenure and hailed it as "a multimedia conception that promised to be so ingenious that listeners traveled long distances to catch it and talked about it for months." Matching Wagner's 19th-century desire to expand what opera could be with 21st-century innovation, Viola and Sellars' staging explores the psychological, spiritual, and elemental subtext of the story. This rare opportunity to see the Tristan Project features a globally celebrated cast, headlined by Nina Stemme and Stephen Gould.

Rachmaninoff Piano Concerto Cycle

Gustavo Dudamel and the LA Phil are joined by the brilliant and charismatic Yuja Wang in a cycle of perhaps the most beloved piano showpieces ever written. “Listening to his music, it’s just the most sensuous and passionate thing. I don’t know where he got it,” Wang has said of Rachmaninoff. “Every time I play his music, it’s a gift.” Across two weekends, Wang and the LA Phil will perform all four of Rachmaninoff’s virtuosic and deeply Romantic piano concertos.

Dudamel Leads Adès’ Dante Project

Thomas Adès called his Inferno “a grateful tribute to Franz Liszt, the composer of hell and demonic music.” When Gustavo Dudamel conducted the premiere in the 2018/19 season, it received a standing ovation before it came to a full stop, and the Los Angeles Times called it “ambitious and electrifying.” Inferno makes up one chapter of a full-length Dante ballet wherein “each movement has a vivid musical character, with Adès’ flamboyant and whimsical take on Liszt and Tchaikovsky.” This season, experience heaven, hell, and the in-between when Inferno returns alongside the U.S. premieres of Purgatory and Paradise.

A New Musical Home for YOLA

Gustavo Dudamel's signature program, YOLA (Youth Orchestra Los Angeles), provides free instruments, intensive music instruction, and leadership training to more than 1,300 young people from under-resourced communities across Los Angeles.

In the fall of 2020, the LA Phil will open YOLA's first permanent, purpose-built facility: the Judith and Thomas L. Beckmen YOLA Center at Inglewood. The Beckmen YOLA Center will be home to the program's fifth site, serve 500 children and their families from the surrounding community, and become a learning hub for YOLA musicians and teachers across Los Angeles, and from across the country.

The LA Phil could not be prouder to open the doors of this warm, welcoming home for the YOLA musicians of today and for generations to come. To learn more about the LA Phil's Learning and Community initiatives, please visit us at laphil.com/yola.

"When I see YOLA play, I remember why I'm here. As long as you work hard and love what you do, the impossible is completely possible."

Support the LA Phil with a Gift Today

Music & Artistic Director Gustavo Dudamel believes firmly in music's power to uplift us, to open our minds, to change lives, and – ultimately – to change the world. The generosity of LA Phil donors allows us to put this idea into action every day.

With your support, the LA Phil provides intensive orchestral training programs, free and low-cost concerts, mentorship for young composers, and countless other opportunities to increase access to music and music education for those who otherwise would not have them in their lives.

In appreciation of your generosity, the LA Phil is pleased to bring you closer to the music than ever before, through invited rehearsals, private receptions, artist salons, special discounts, and so much more.

For more information, visit laphil.com/support or call 213 972 7557 to learn how you can play your part today!
