José González
with yMusic

Swedish-born, but of Argentinean descent, José González makes his debut at Walt Disney Concert Hall in this special performance with the strings of inventive classical ensemble yMusic. One of today's most remarkable songwriters, with a crystal-clear singing voice and vibrant, classically-inspired guitar playing, González pulls from folk, pop and an array of world music traditions to build songs that are powerful, haunting and intimate.

León Gieco, special guest
Juana Molina, special guest
Gustavo Santoalalla, special guest

The "voice of the voiceless," Argentina's Mercedes Sosa was a leader of the nueva canción movement, created to resist South America's military dictatorships. Her extraordinary voice and rebellious songs were rooted in Argentinian and other South American folk music. After her arrest and exile, she returned stronger than ever.
